Education Builds a Life that Matters IREF has been providing health care training to its students since 1996. Hundreds of students have gone through the Health Workers Training Institute, an 18-month course intended for students to be able to perform basic medical practices in their home villages. Often times in these remote areas, the nearest clinics or hospitals are hours away. By mobilizing students to care for the basic health needs of people in their villages, God is using IREF to give these young people the tools to reverse their worldly paradigms of poverty.

IREF also operates a four-year Bachelors of Nursing program. A career in nursing builds IREF students to selflessly advocate for others. It trains them to process quick decisions and encourages them to offer hope at each stage of the healing process. The final goal is for each student to excel as a compassionate, competent health care professional.

As a new school year has started at IREF, there are many young people who have come to Repalle for the first time in search of hope for a better future. Many do not realize that God has placed them at IREF for His purpose. Providing these young people with Christian education is providing them with the tools that will expand the kingdom of God.

We are in constant need of updating our educational resources and equipment to meet current educational standards. Please prayerfully consider making a donation to our healthcare programs. It is because of faithful supporters like yourself that we've been able to sustain these programs for over 20 years.
